(MA-ICM)

Information on Funding Opportunities

2019

ash-berlin.eu/icm
icm@ash-berlin.eu

Dear applicant,

This compilation of institutions to apply to for funding is not meant to be complete. However, it provides an overview of institutions relevant to the Master of Arts in Intercultural Conflict Management (MA-ICM). Please note that the information is taken from the original website sources and changes might have occurred. Some of them are in German language. This does not automatically mean that only citizens from Germany may apply. In this case, I would suggest that you contact those organizations via e-mail.

Keep in mind their deadlines! Some deadlines are as early as September of the preceding year. Therefore, you should consult their websites well in advance to your application to find out if you meet the criteria.

The following text is an example that may be considered as a standard procedure with many of the foundations ("Stiftungen"). This might help you getting organized before starting your research.

Procedure for the "Stiftungen":

First write a short letter stating who you are and why you are interested in their specific aims (see their homepage to check their agenda and whether this fits your own) and why you want to study the MA-ICM. Remember to ask for their application forms and their deadlines as early as possible, even without being accepted to our graduate program. If a German embassy or a representative of the foundation you are interested in is near you, get their advice. Normally they prefer foreign students who are already in Germany. If you apply from abroad, they will only consider your application after our official confirmation and/ or offer of enrolment. You will also have to explain to them that you do not need the TestDaf/DSH German exam for studying at the MA-ICM since this is an English language program.

We wish you good luck with your scholarship application!

Prerequisites:

U.S. citizenship

A high level of academic achievement

A solid application

The program facilitates university study and research for two academic semesters at a German university. The grants usually begin in September. Depending on the academic level of the candidate, he or she may be able to pursue full-time study (graduating seniors) or independent research under the supervision of a German advisor (doctoral candidates). The Commission will arrange for university affiliation and set up academic contacts when necessary.

Several grants are reserved for candidates in the performing arts. Special application procedures for these grants can be obtained from the Institute of International Education.

Applicants should contact their advisor or the IIE in the spring proceeding the year in which they wish to study in Germany. (For example, those wishing to apply to begin studying in September 2004 should contact an adviser in the spring of 2003.)

World University Service (WUS)

- Africa, Asia, Latin America -

The World University Service (WUS) supports foreign students who have already shown a commitment to social or development policy issues in their home country or current residence. A solidary awareness for, interest in and commitment to the development and implementation of grassroot-oriented work following completion of the degree form an essential basis for a scholarship award decision. Applicants will receive extendible one-year scholarships which either serve to allow study for a first German degree or for a postgraduate degree, depending on the applicant's previous educational level.

The scholarship is comprised of a basic scholarship payment, a health insurance payment and reimbursement of travel costs to and from Germany (return trip). More information on the respective website.
