

Project:
How I conducted the Interviews with the street children in Casa Alianza

by: Berna Yadira Valladares

Casa Alianza is a housing shelter for street children in Honduras. It is the biggest help that street children have in the country of Honduras and therefore it was my first source that I choose for my master thesis. In this project, I will explain the steps I took to be able to get interviews which I later used for the master thesis. I would also like to tell the entire experience that went along with the gathering of information.
