The ASH Pre-Study Program

For whom is the ASH Pre-Study program and why does it exist?

The ASH Pre-Study Program is for refugees who cannot yet apply for studies at ASH Berlin. Language competences in German (Level C1) can be acquired within the one year program and pre-internships that are required to apply for certain study programs at ASH Berlin can be carried out. In addition there is the possibility to enroll to courses which then are credited in further studies. With the ASH Pre-Study Program as well as the active support within the application process, the ASH Berlin aims to contribute to educational justice and increase the number of enrolled refugee students.

Structure of the ASH Pre-Study Program

Duration: 2 semesters (approx. 1 year)

Program:

- Language- and orientation courses (Level B2 and C1)
- Enrollment in accompanied courses
- Completion of study relevant application requirements (e.g. internship, first-aid course)

Support:

- Support and assistance by mentors
- Support for final application to regular studies

Why study Social Work, Early Childhood Education, Healthcare and Nursing Management or Physiotherapy/ Occupational therapy at ASH Berlin?

The need of qualified and multi-lingual personnel in the fields of Social Work, Education, Parenting and Health in Germany rises continuously for years now.

At ASH Berlin, students acquire competence through the respective BA-Studies in exactly these fields of work in order to be qualified to act independently in various fields of the social-, parenting-, education-, and health sector.

According to the values of its founder, the ASH Berlin considers itself very engaged in the academisation of study programs such as Social Work, Early Childhood Education, Healthcare and Nursing Management as well as Physiotherapy/ Occupational Therapy. At the same time it is dedicated to further the professionalization of the working fields in regards to human rights, transnational networking and the promotion of critical diversity.

Even today the ASH Berlin considers itself committed and socially tasked to support social justice and critically reflect on developments in social society, regarding emancipatory reality.
